Fox Rothschild Attorneys Present at the 2006
Pennsylvania College and University Attorney Meeting

Philadelphia, PA, November 16, 2006 – Kevin B. Scott, Esq. and Steven Ludwig, Esq. of Fox Rothschild LLP recently presented at the Annual Pennsylvania College and University Attorney Meeting, hosted this year by St. Joseph's University. The presentations were focused on matters of interest to the higher education community. Ludwig spoke on recent Supreme Court cases in the labor and employment area and Scott discussed the prohibition against political campaigning imposed on most non-profits by the IRS.

The meeting was hosted by Debra Fickler, Esquire, General Counsel of St. Joseph's University, and organized by Ms. Fickler and Robert C. Clothier, Esq., also from Fox Rothschild.

Scott's practice involves representing participants in tax-exempt financings and the general representation of charitable organizations. He has significant experience in assisting higher education and other non-profit organizations in all phases of their operations, including corporate compliance, charitable giving and finance.

Ludwig represents private and public clients in the full range of labor and employment matters. He counsels clients regarding litigation and alternative dispute resolution options as well as regulatory compliance. Ludwig also handles matters involving the Americans with Disabilities Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act, ERISA, COBRA, FMLA, civil rights laws, wage and hour laws and contract disputes.
