Fox Rothschild Attorneys Actively Involved with Pennsylvania Bar Institute Seminars

Philadelphia, PA, January 9, 2007 –Charles J. Meyer, Esq., a Partner in the Family Law Group of Fox Rothschild, recently served as a co-course planner for Pennsylvania Bar Institute seminars entitled, "Equitable Distribution Updates." The seminars, held in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, focused primarily on equitable distribution issues in complex divorce cases. Meyer served as a co-moderator for the program held in Pittsburgh and served as the sole moderator for the program held in Philadelphia. Also participating as a panelist in the Philadelphia program was Mark R. Ashton, Esq., a Partner in the firm's Chester County office.

Meyer has practiced family law for more than 15 years, concentrating in: divorce, distribution of marital assets, support, custody, and adoption. His clients include high-worth individuals, professional athletes, and their spouses.

Ashton practices in the area of civil litigation with a particular emphasis on family law. He has lectured throughout the Commonwealth and has written extensively on topics including: the tax aspects of family law agreements, litigation of child custody disputes, the valuation of closely held businesses, and executive stock option plans.
