RECLAMERE OWNER RECEIVED NATIONAL AWARD

STATE COLLEGE, PA – Reclamere, Inc., a Pennsylvania based I.T. Asset Management company announces that Angie Singer Keating, Vice President, Corporate Security and Compliance at Reclamere was recently awarded NAID Member of the Year, from the Phoenix, AZ-based, National Association for Information Destruction, Inc. (NAID), a watchdog organization whose mission is to enforce high security and ethical standards in organizations that offer information destruction services.

Reclamere offers an environmentally safe solution for computer disposal that also allows any organization to remain compliant with the strict federal privacy laws regarding personal data. Reclamere provides a process for identifying and removing the confidential information that resides on a computer's hard drive. Once cleaned, the hardware can then be resold domestically or on the international marketplace, filling a demand for surplus American computer equipment.

The annual NAID Conference was held in Orlando, FL from April 11, 2007 to April 13, 2007.

Reclamere was awarded NAID Certification in late 2006.
