Stradley Ronon Adds “Bio” Partner

PHILADELPHIA – Stradley Ronon has added Debra S. Dunne as a partner and chair of the firm’s life sciences practice group. Based in the firm’s Philadelphia office, Dunne oversees a nine-attorney practice group that represents companies in the pharmaceutical, medical device and other healthcare-related industries.

With more than 20 years of legal experience, Dunne, a former registered pharmacist, counsels clients on regulatory, compliance and risk-management issues, and litigates pharmaceutical and medical-device products liability cases. She handles matters involving all stages of the product life cycle including clinical trials, pre-approval activities, labeling, advertising and promotion, and post-marketing challenges.

“We are delighted to have a partner of Debra’s caliber join our firm to lead the life sciences practice group,” said Stradley Ronon Chairman William R. Sasso. “She has a unique understanding of pharmacy practice; and her abilities, coupled with our IP, government affairs and litigation experience, will broaden the services we can offer our clients.”

“Stradley Ronon provides a solid platform for me to serve my existing clients,” said Dunne. “I look forward to putting my years of experience in the life-sciences industry to work for the firm’s clients, and to continue to expand its life-sciences regulatory, compliance and litigation practice.”

Dunne is an active member of the American Society for Pharmacy Law and the Healthcare Businesswomen’s Association. She is also a frequent lecturer and author on topics related to the pharmaceutical and medical-device industries. Prior to joining Stradley Ronon, Dunne was a partner at Segal McCambridge Singer & Mahoney in Philadelphia.

Dunne received her law degree from Ohio Northern University Pettit College of Law and her pharmacy degree from Duquesne University.
