MTM LINGUASOFT CELEBRATES FOUR YEARS OF SUCCESS

MTM LinguaSoft, a language services company based in West Philadelphia and a member of the GPCC supplier network, just celebrated its fourth anniversary. Founded by French entrepreneur Myriam Siftar in 2003, the firm is already earning profits and boasts an extensive and varied roster of clients that includes such large firms as GlaxoSmithKline and Independence Blue Cross.

Bilingual in French and English, Siftar has an MBA from Drexel University and 15 years experience as a technology director and a software development project manager in both Fortune 500 and startup companies within the US, Europe and Latin America. Because of her background, the company specializes in website and software translation, which has been a major asset as more and more companies realize that speaking their customers' language can be a competitive advantage. MTM LinguaSoft also specializes in the Middle Eastern and Asian languages of today's fastest growing foreign markets, and offers desktop publishing services in these languages.

To mark its anniversary, the company launched a newly-designed website that can be found at www.mtmlinguasoft.com.
