

Reinventing Older Communities: How Does Place Matter?

The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, The Brookings Institution, William Penn Foundation, the University of Pennsylvania's Institute for Urban Research, and 22 other co-sponsors and supporters are organizing a national conference on challenges in reinventing and revitalizing cities and other older communities.

Leading practitioners and researchers around the country are speaking in this third Reinventing conference, which will take place March 26 to 28, 2008 at the Marriott Philadelphia Downtown Hotel. The conference features current practice, improving practice, and research tracks.

For a detailed agenda and to register:

<http://www.philadelphiafed.org/cca/conferences.html>