WARREN, NEW JERSEY - Paulus, Sokolowski & Sartor (PS&S), one of Northeast regions' leading design firms is proud to announce that it has received an Honor Award for Site Design from the NJ Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects (NJASLA) for Weehawken Waterfront Park and Recreation Center, NJ. There were 42 entries in the competition this year, and fourteen were recognized with awards. The presentation will be made at the annual NJASLA meeting in Atlantic City in January.

PS&S was part of the project team providing engineering and environmental services to help transform an 11.5 acre former Brownfield site, an unused, deteriorating and overgrown parking lot into a state-of-the-art active public park. The park with unobstructed views of the Hudson River and the Manhattan skyline, includes such amenities as 1,000 linear feet of waterfront walkway and 3,000 linear feet of paths; three tennis courts; a six-lane regulation size synthetic surfaced running track; a multi use artificial grass field for soccer, football, and lacrosse, complete with bleachers and scoreboard; an artificial grass fenced enclosed softball field, also with bleachers, dugouts and scoreboard; a natural grass softball and multi use field; two fenced enclosed play areas (tot & teen) with poured safety surfaces; five separate outdoor exercise stations, each with poured safety surfaces; an outdoor amphitheater; an artificial grass putting green; two food service kiosks; a restroom and maintenance facility structure; and approximately 100 car and seven bus parking spaces.

During his dedication speech at the opening ceremonies in 2007, the Mayor of Weehawken unveiled a dedication plaque which is permanently displayed at the park, listing PS&S for their design and engineering contribution.

The American Council of Engineering Companies in New Jersey (ACEC NJ) also recently awarded this project a State Honor Award for Engineering Excellence in the Land Development category. The project also received recognition at the national level from the ACEC.
