Company Uses Innovative Technology to Bring the Plight of Haitians to the World

Consider this: As relief workers come and go, helping the people of Haiti piece together their lives, who is helping them raise their spirits?

We all know technology can be used to aid humanity, but the Connexus Foundation is making it real. This summer, through an innovative online prayer website called www. Prayconnexus.com, the Connexus Foundation will capture video, photos, images, and messages of people affected by the devastating earthquake that rocked Haiti in January. This groundbreaking, innovative bridge between technology and humanity, with a worldwide reach, will connect thousands of people to the ongoing plight of the Haitian people in an on-going, emotional way.

But no one can do it alone. And that's why the Connexus Foundation is partnering with Fresh Anointing Christian Center, a local church in Upper Darby, PA, to send a team of 13 people to Haiti from July 1st to July 11th not only to document the challenges faced by the Haitian people but to also provide much needed supplies and spiritual support. The team will be distributing food, clothing, medical supplies, and other goods to hundreds affected by the quake.

The Connexus Foundation is a Pennsylvania non-profit corporation established by Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce member Connexus Technology, LLC, to leverage cutting edge technologies to positively impact people around the world.

PrayerConnexus.com has over thousands of users and members with geographic diversity expanding the globe. These people, along with other daily visitors from around the world, will be able to get a more personal account of the needs and prayer requests of those affected. This is human computer interactivity at its most personal level as visitors to www.PrayConnexus.com will have the unique opportunity of seeing Haiti from a new vantage point.
