

Is Technology your friend or foe?

Is your business using technology to its fullest potential? Are your applications and systems aligned with your business objectives? It is no secret that with the right technology in place, you can increase efficiencies, employee productivity, your customer's experience and your bottom line. Whether you lack the internal technical resources, the additional bandwidth, or just need system augmentation or consultation, TechO2 can help.

Now is the perfect time: During May 2010, TechO2 is offering a free technology assessment to qualified GPCC members to address their software development needs. The technology assessment and free consulting of up to six hours focuses on the pain points of the individual organization/department, a 360 degree evaluation of their current situation, and a report of the situation analysis with sound advice.

TechO2, a Philadelphia based IT Solutions Company, builds world-class software for North American clients by leveraging its vast industry experience, global resources, efficient turnaround cycles, and a worry-free delivery model. Our extensive software experience and offshore infrastructure dovetail to deliver innovative and economical solutions. We've implemented enterprise technology solutions for a broad range of clients across numerous industries. Whether you engage TechO2 for application development, support services, idea incubation, consulting, or product development – you will benefit from our unique approach.

Please visit our website www.techo2.com or call Harry at 1-866-266-0286 for more information about our work, vision and the value we bring to every client engagement.