

PhillyJunk.com Provides E-Waste & Junk Removal Solutions While Keeping the Environment in Mind

Bala Cynwyd, PA May 15, 2010 -- PhillyJunk.com, a locally owned and operated residential and commercial junk removal company, opened in April to address the growing need of properly disposing of unwanted junk. Different from the current junk removal companies in market, PhillyJunk.com is an environmentally friendly company that also specializes in removing e-waste such as computers, televisions and electronics. With every pick up, PhillyJunk.com evaluates all items during removal in efforts to recycle or donate unwanted items.

"One man's junk is another person's treasure," said Marty Ingram, President of PhillyJunk.com. "This is something we experience almost every day. It's a win-win for all of us when we can put to good use unwanted items. During each pick up we review to see what items we can donate first. If something cannot be donated, we then take items to an environmentally friendly transfer station to recycle. We want to make sure that we are doing our part to give back."

PhillyJunk.com provides free on-site estimates by a team of professionally insured drivers. PhillyJunk.com provides cleanouts of apartments, houses, garages, basements, attics, rooms and back yards. Within the commercial sector, their services clean out retail stores, office and warehouses facilities. You can book online appointments by visiting www.phillyjunk.com.
